U.S. COMMERCIAL EXPORTS

OF DRY EDIBLE BEANS AT RECORD

CURRENT SERIAL RECORDS

BEANS
FDP 8-64
November 1964

U.S. commercial exports of dry edible beans reached the alltime high of approximately 173,000 metric tons in the marketing year ending August 31, 1964. This total was 15 percent higher than the level of commercial exports last year and 37 percent higher than the 1955-59 average. Gross exports, on the other hand, were 2 percent lower this year than last, because of fewer beans moving under government programs.

Only 4,445 tons of beans were exported under PL 480 programs in 1963-64, compared with some 50,000 tons in 1962-63.

Half of the beans exported in 1963-64 were Michigan navys and 18 percent great northerns. Pintos and red kidneys each constituted about 10 percent. Thus, four classes, navys, northerns, red kidneys, and pintos accounted for 86 percent of total exports.

While navy bean exports showed an increase from last year of about 15 percent, pintos increased 60 percent, red kidneys doubled, and great northerns jumped 191 percent.

Principal importer of U.S. beans in 1963-64 was the United Kingdom with 44,200 metric tons. Of these, 42,300 were navy beans. France took 22,000 tons, of which 13,600 were navys and 7,400 were great northerns. Next in order of volume was Mexico with 12,800 tons; of these, 12,300 were pintos. Venezuela took 10,200 tons, most of them colored beans and great northerns.

Other sizable importers were the Netherlands, Spain, Dominican Republic, Italy, and Japan. The Dominican Republic, Spain, and Italy showed the greatest percentage increase of U.S. bean imports over the previous year.
